I note the recent proliferation of video signage at our major road intersection and seek the governments view and regulations covering their implementation. We now have them at the corner Nepean Hwy and South Rd, Nepean Hwy and Centre Dandenong Dr and bottom of Springvale and Wells Rds. I am amaze that VicRoads has allowed them with all the publicity about divers and being distracted by their mobile phone, yet someone has allowed these huge video screen to be erected at major intersections and by their very nature are supposed to distract you.

The other issue I have with them is, did any one ask the question, "How do these eyesores enhance our visual environment". I use to drive east up Edithvale Rd through the wetlands and have the Dandenong in the foreground (nature all around) and now in the foreground all I see is this huge video screen advertising junk that nobody needs.

Can government please stop this visual pollution and heed your own message about distracting drivers. We have more than enough road signage to distract us from the task at hand without adding to it.
