

Make Things Move

2 Mar 2019

Hi,

I am currently living in suburb Victoria. In order to get to work in Melbourne CBD i have 2 option: Public transport or Driving.

Option 1 Driving: my job start at 9am and finished as 5 driving would be impossible because of the traffic. If this is my option i will be wasting 3h a day sitting in traffic. And the damage to the environment just because traffic is credulous.

Option 2 Public transport: I have to catch a train from Sunshine to Flinder and from Flin catch a tram. If you have ever been to a tram stop in front of Flinder street you will start to understand what im talking about. The metro even have to have 4 ppl there just to keep the line in order because of the amount of ppl are lining up in the morning to get to work. The wait for a spot is around 30 min for tram even tho that tram comes every 2 - 3 minute.

The law have it own sense but it sense does not make the world a better place in term of environment. the public transport are not built to serve the public demand. Everything is running behind and when there is a solution for some that solution get shutoff by the law for unknown statistical based reasoning. Please do consider.
